How does your child learn? With her whole being...mind and heart together! Join Internationally known early childhood educator, Ellen Booth Church for a fun, educational and interactive look at the many ways we can encourage our children to use higher order thinking and problem solving skills.

Very early in life children begin exploring the world with their bodies, senses, and developing skills. They intuitively know how to take the smallest observation, object, or surprise and turn it into a meaningful experience. It is our job to support this curiosity and help it grow. How to inspire curiosity, creative thinking, and joy along your child's path to greater knowledge? Through creative conversations, questions and home science discovery!

This session will share some of the recent brain research combined with simple, practical suggestions you can take right home to your family. This is an instructive and interactive workshop...so come prepared to play!
